

Creating dynamic test teams

Effective test teams don't just happen. We can help you create the right team with the right fit to supplement and improve your existing processes.

Encompass can help in creating an effective testing team for your project

- Develop a high level test strategy based around your organisation's culture and software development approach
- Advise on strategies to avoid conflicts that can arise with change involved in introducing a new team
- Help you understand what kind of team would best work within your organisation
- Ensure stakeholder expectations will be met

Test Team Establishment

- Assistance in finding the right skills and avoiding hiring pitfalls
- Mentoring and hands-on assistance for test resources
- Advice on training and career path progression for test resources
- Identify obstacles that may impede testing

Everything really interesting that happens in software projects eventually comes down to people

James Bach

